

'Grandfathers and Revolutions'

The film was screened on Tuesday 28th October and was absorbing watching provoking very different responses from those who saw it. It did not try to tell us what we should think, it allowed those interviewed and speaking to put their point so that we could make up our own minds.

1956 - 2003

History has yet to cast its verdict and I think the film inevitably leaves as many questions unanswered as answered, but as a thought provoking piece of documentary TV it well deserved the praise it received wherever it was shown.

Screened by kind agreement with

AUSTRALIAN FILM COMMISSION, PACIFIC FILM AND TELEVISION COMMISSION and GRIFFITH UNIVERSITY.

We wish to thank the Műszaki Egyetem Nemzetközi Gimnázium for offering facilities for the screening and Lyn Drummond for arranging its loan from the Australian Embassy. If you wish to use the film for educational purposes you should contact us and we will pass on the request. The sponsors would normally charge a fee, however, if the screening is non-educational.

songbooks with you, you should be able to borrow them on the night.

Songbooks for Singlish Folk

There are five songbooks containing words for the songs sung at the 'Singlish Folk' night. Copies can be requested by using the contact details on page 1.

In addition we have produced a broadsheet – number 6 – of Christmas songs which can also be e-mailed if requested.

Organisers please ... Multicultural evening!

The work of the ESU takes time and effort and we hope that everyone will make an effort to join in the organising of events. In this way the number and variety of meetings will increase.

We wish to do a multicultural evening on the 18th and would like members or friends to offer to contact non-British native speakers, say from Pakistan, Canada, India, Malaysia etc. so that we can put together an evening of music and discussion on a multicultural theme. If you can offer something please e-mail us so that we can co-ordinate your efforts.

Other Evenings ...

We are looking to you for ideas for new evenings, what you would like to do or ideas you can offer as we wish to put together a programme for the coming year. If you can offer something, please get in touch and suggest dates and times too.

Clubs and Societies ...

If you run a club which has our broad aims and which is open to ESU members, send the details of date, time, venue (and how to get there!) and any costs and we will include it in our diary or do a feature if appropriate.
